Day 2: STONE TOWN EXCURSION

After breakfast embark on a half day excursion to learn about the history of this amazing island – Zanzibar!

It may not have a particularly romantic name, but Stone Town is the old city and cultural heart of Zanzibar, little changed in the last 200 years. It is a place of winding alleys, bustling bazaars, mosques and grand Arab houses. This one-upmanship is particularly reflected in the brass-studded, carved, wooden doors. Stone Town was declared a World Heritage Site by UNESCO in 2000. Most of the houses that can be seen today were built in the 19th century when Zanzibar was one of the most important trading centers in the Indian Ocean region.

The market is a great place to visit even if you don't want to buy anything. It is a vibrant place where everything under the sun is bought and sold. People bring their produce here from all over the island, and other people come to buy things they can't get in their own villages. Of special interest is the huge selection of brightly colored khangas - worn by the local women.

Livingstone's House was built around 1860 for Sultan Majid, and was used by many of the missionaries and explorers as a starting point. Most notably, Dr David Livingstone lived here before commencing his last journey to the mainland interior. The Palace Museum is a large white building with castellated battlements, and was built in the late 1890's for members of the Sultan's family. Originally called the Sultan's Palace, in 1911 it became the official residence of the Sultan of Zanzibar. In 1994, the palace was turned into a museum dedicated to the history of Zanzibar. Return to resort by late afternoon. Rest of the day at leisure.
